RAILROAD COMPANY INVITING BIDS ON NEW CHARLEROI STATION TODAY

Set of Plans and Specifications Sent Here For Local Firms to Examine

WILL LET CONTRACT SOON

Division Officials Anxious to Get Work Underway So Depot Can Be Finished During the Year

Information was received today from the division office at Pittsburg that the Pennsylvania Railroad is inviting bids on the proposed new Charleroi passenger station to be erected this spring. Local contractors will have a chance to bid.

Since the announcement made by the division officials about a month ago that work would proceed on the new Charleroi station as soon as possible this spring, the company has been getting the plans and specification in the most suitable shape. Without doubt Charleroi is to have one of the finest suburban stations in Western Pennsylvania, and one that will compare with any of the towns and cities of three or four times the population.

A set of plans and specifications will be sent to Charleroi so that the local lumber companies and contractors may see them and prepare bids.

Evidentally the contract will be awarded for the work as soon as possible, so that work of construction can be gotten under way at an early date in order to finish this year.

FIRM IN BUSINESS FOR TWELVE YEARS

Kirk and Clark Celebrating Anniversary of Charleroi Store

A fair day, liberal advertising and special inducements in the way of new goods and bargains, is bringing crowds to the twelfth anniversary sale of the Economic Store of Kirk and Clark today. It was twelve years ago when this enterprising firm first opened up for business in Charleroi, and how well they have succeeded is attested by the handsome new business block the firm erected a few year ago and occupy with their rapidly growing business.

It has been the custom of his firm to establish some new department each succeeding anniversary, and this year they have established a five and ten cent wall paper department. They have an immense stock of paper for the prices mentioned, and carry no higher priced goods in that line. The store is full of pretty things that delight the hearts of feminine shoppers, and a handsome pressed glass colonial pattern cream pitcher is given to visitors as an anniversary souvenir.

BLOOD VESSEL BREAKS AS AUTO PASSES OVER NECK

Prof. H. B. Franks who spent considerable time in Charleroi and vicinity last year giving exhibitions of strength, and who appeared here in connection with the Fourth of July demonstration met death last week at Sandusky, Ohio. Franks was going through his usual performance of letting the wheels of an automobile containing five passenger pass over his neck when a blood vessel broke causing instant death. Franks made a living for himself and wife by going about from place to place giving exhitions of Sampsonic strength and great physical endurance. His performance of permitting an automobile to pass over his neck was an every day affair with him, and he never seemed to suffer any ill effect except to feel worn out

It was up to the women to buy boxes at the Protected Home Circle box social last night. But that wasn't the worst, or the 'est, part of it—the men had to prepare the boxes. Bidding was spirited and some good round prices were paid, the proceeds to be added to the relief fund. Jones and Copeland furnished instrumental music. Miss Mabel Orr was awarded a grand favor in the form of a gold P. H C. stick pin. There is talk of a poverty social to be held in the near future, and also a minstrel show to be given under the direction of Capt. Frank Taylor and Eddie Miller.

"THE ROSARY" COMING TO COYLE THEATRE

Can an evil mind breeding evil thoughts exert an adverse influence upon an entire family, bring that family to ruin and the members of the household remain in ignorance of the reason for the unhappiness?

Fayette City Asks Court to Allow Borough to Appoint Auditors to Look Over Accounts

HAD 30 YEARS OF GRACE

Got Along For Nearly Third of Century Without Trouble of Having Examinations of Books Made

Fayette City borough through its solicitor, Hugh E. Fergus, of Charleroi, will shortly present to the court of Fayette county a petition asking that auditors be appointed to audit the borough books. Fayette City has got along for 30 years without having an audit made according to law, and members of council have suddenly awakened to the fact that it is not business-like for a thriving municipality to be so unsystematic or profoundly forgetful. An audit company will likely be employed, if the sentiment of some of the members of council is taken into consideration.

The council has passed a fire limit ordinance and it has gone into effect through the signature of the burgess. The ordinance sets the fire limit as including Main and Cook streets to Fording, both sides of Market street from First to Fourth streets both sides of Union from the P. and L. E. railroad to Fourth street.

Good Roads First

Governor Tener has nipped in the bud an attempt to hook up with the proposed good roads amendment another amendment to promote the Pittsburg canal project. The good roads proposition meets with general favor throughout the State, but the canal project only affects the western part of the State, and while promoting industrial developments that would no doubt be beneficial to the State at large in time, its effects will not be so far reaching and beneficial as the good roads project. For that reason the promoters of the canal project seek to work in their amendment on the popularity of the other. This Governor Tener opposes, holding that each shall stand on its own merits.

This position is well taken. The canal proposition is an advanced project, which might be profitably considered by the State when the primary works of development are all planned and executed. The road proposition is most vital, and if put into execution will be to the State what the Panama canal will be to the maritime commerce of the world. In insisting that these projects be kept separate, Governor Tener is pursuing a wise course. Each is too big to be considered together, and the road project is the most vital and has the first call.

Honesty Pays

Recently the Men's Club of the big department store of the Joseph Horne company of Pittsburg were addressed by William C. Freeman, advertising manager of the New York Evening Mail, on "Advertising." Mr. Freeman, who is recognized as one of the leading advertising experts of the country, strongly insisted on the merchant being truthful and honest in advertising his wares.

The business houses that have made the greatest progress, Mr. Freeman declared, are those that have adhered strictly to a straightforward business policy, and have avoided all misrepresentation of values. Nothing injures a town or community more than untrue advertisements which make sweeping misstatements. Purchasers who visit a store where wholesale reductions are advertised, only to find that the reductions apply to old stock soon lose faith in the advertising announcements of that particular firm. If this class of advertising is practiced generally, the whole community is soon put under the ban by the purchasing public.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Most people think they wouldn't be robbers at all if they couldn't be real gentlemanly thieves. But this class never has any nerve anyhow.

Two girls are charged with stealing from a traveling man in Lawrence county. It has usually been considered legitimate to take anything from a man belonging to that profession.

Uncle Sam doesn't very often get out of sorts but when he does there is something doing.

Some people are learning how to talk Welsh. They have learned how to pronounce eisteddfod.

Anthony Biddle won't be in much shape to teach Sunday school Sunday because he took a notion that he could lick a fellow by the name of John O'Brien.

President Diaz is reported to be in bad health. You can't hardly blame him.

John L. Stewart, over at Washington, is taking on more trouble. He has bought another newspaper.

The Washington and Jefferson faculty opines that the street whereon a fraternity is living is an unfit place for the dear young men to stay. Whereupon they will be expected to move to some other neighborhood to put it in the same class.

A brand new railroad story has originated from Morgantown that a line is to be built between there and Connellsville but like the rest the people won't believe it until they see the tracks.

One comfort in this Mexican affair is that it will keep President Taft busy so he won't lose so many golf balls, thus making the price of rubber high.

Little fishes in the brook
Father catches with a hook;
Then comes home with honest eyes
And tells a mammoth string of lies.

It takes a crank to make things go round.

A new law has been proposed to regulate the use of gasoline. Just so they keep some fools from using it with which to start fires.

The way these monopolies act sometimes makes a fellow want to give them a good swift jab in the ribs.

With several farmers in the Legislature wanting to get back home to plant crops, its not much wonder the Ohio Legislature wants to adjourn.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

At a social gathering of women the other evening the drama was the subject of discussion. The various members were telling of the different plays they had seen and the impressions they had made, when one of the women said:

"The play that made the most impression on me was the first one I ever witnessed. It was over forty years ago in a little country town, and was presented by a company of barnstormers that for some reason had wandered into our village. The play was "Under the Gaslight," and to this day I vividly remember the plot and every detail of the lurid melodrama. This is the play where 'Snokry', the one-armed soldier is bound by the villian and laid upon the railroad track, but is rescued by the heroine just as the midnight express rushes by.

I was an impressionable child when I witnessed that play, and no dramatic production—and I have attended the best of them—ever appealed to my imagination so vividly, nor did the stage settings and properties appear so grand and real as did "Under the Gaslight" presented by the Kate Estelle company in the little country town, far removed from the railroad, over forty years ago."

A couple of connoisseurs of that delectable beverage technically known as "spirits frumenti," were engaged in a heated controversy at the corner of Fifth steet the other evening while waiting for a car. The argument was over the respective merits of "Sam Thompson" and "Gibsonton," and the partisan of each was firm in his conviction, and refused to be convinced. Finally an acquaintance who had strolled up was appealed to. This personage was bowed with the weight of years and resembled the description of Coleridges' "Ancient Mariner" He was addressed as "Uncle" and deliberated thusly:

"All whiskey's good, but some is better'n others. I couldn't jest rightly decide without tryin' 'em both to onct."

The trio disappeared within the doors of a nearby barroom.

SURGEONS' FEES.

Pretty Big Sometimes, but Then There Is Another Point of View

I have a warm spot in my heart for the big American surgeons, says a writer in the New York Telegraph, and because of regular attendance for years at some of the most famous clinics in this and other cities I have been a witness of their unadvertised charities—acts of mercy and kindness which were never heard of outside the walls of the hospitals they honor by their services.

I knew a wealthy man whose daughter was suddenly stricken and whose life was saved by the attending surgeon His fee was $25,000 Straightway the father emitted a wail.

"It's robbery," he said. The surgeon stood firm.

"Your daughter's life is worth $25,000 to you," he countered There was no denial.

"Well, this fee means that I can operate on fifty persons without any charge, and if you don't like it you can force me to sue, but I will get it without a suit or you will stand a lot of publicity."

And he got the money without recourse to a court of law.

It is safe to mark it down when you see a story of some great surgeon who has charged a high fee that there are many of his patients enjoying good health and relief from pain because he charged them nothing at all.

THE CLANRICARDE PLAQUE.

A Famous Specimen of the Sixteenth Century Goldsmith's Art.

One of the greatest cinquecento jewels in the world is the Clanricarde plaque, owned by Lord Clanricarde, who is known as the "hermit peer" and who claims direct descent from the kings of Connaught. He guards with jealous care this precious example of the goldsmith's art, keeping it safe from possible thieves and the common gaze in a bank vault, to which he goes occasionally with great secrecy to feast his eyes upon its magnificence. Some years ago, by royal request, he lent it to an art exhibition in London, where it was admired and coveted by some of the greatest connoisseurs of Europe.

The huge disk is as delicately wrought as a spider's web and represents the figure of Hercules wielding a diamond sword The sword blade is composed of a mass of perfectly matched steel white stones, and a superb blue diamond scintillates from the hilt The present owner inherited it from his mother, who was a Miss Canning before her marriage to the Irish lord, and the plaque is practically priceless. Aside from its value to collectors and its worth as a specimen of rare and exquisite art, it is incrusted with a fortune in jewels.—New York Press.

Enough Said.

"Thrifty, is she?"

"Thrifty! I won't go into a long discourse. I merely tell you that she banks money in December."—Washington Herald.

His Dilemma.

"For $200 I'll fix your teeth so you can chew without difficulty."

"If I was to give you $200 I couldn't get anything to chew on."—Life.

Her Correction.

Two young women were talking over their restaurant luncheon the other day about the quality of a certain prima donna's voice.

The other girl flushed and looked troubled. After a slight pause she spoke in gentle reproof.

"I don't want to correct you, dear," she said. "But don't you think that word is usually pronounced 'lair?' It is spelled l-a-i-r, you know."—Philadelphia Ledger.

To the voters of Washington County.

Believing that I am fully qualified to perform the duties of the Office of Prothonotary to the entire satisfaction of the professional, business and general public, I wish to announce myself as a candidate for that office. It is possibly the most difficult office in the county to properly conduct, yet I feel that my experience with its duties justifies me in asking your support for the nomination and election to the same.

It will be my desire and effort to see personally as many as possible before the primaries. Yet I wish to ask those of my friends who feel that they can give me their support to also take an active interest in my candidacy and speak a good word for me as opportunity occurs. This I will most gratefully appreciate and I shall endeavor to make good any recommendation you may make of me.

Sincerely

HARRY E. POLLOCK.

AMONG THE THEATRES

The Palace—Charleroi.

"An American Count" was an amusing photoplay that was a feature at the Palace Theatre this week. The story was that of the foolish young American girl who received a foreign count's portrait and a letter of introduction from a friend. Carried away with the idea of captivating him the girl throws overboard her lover, a worthy young American, whom her father approves. The latter gets hold of the count's photo, and the two connive to head off the girl in her folly. Going to a costumer the young man disguises himself as the count, and calling on the girl proposes and is accepted. The father finally consents to the suit of the mock count, but insists on a hasty marriage, which takes place. While the ceremony is being performed the father reveals the plot. The real count then shows up, but his appearance is so disgusting that the girl is well satisfied with her choice. There were numerous other good features and the songs both illustrated and spot light were of the highest order. A feature next week will be the illustrated song composed by John Buchanan of Charleroi.

New Duquesne—Pittsburg.

The splendid Court of Napoleon during the day of his shortlived Empire is to be depicted on the stage of the Duquesne Theatre next week with rich and elaborate magnificence of stage mounting. The Harry Davis Stocks player are then to present that delightful and picturesque comedy "Madam Sans-Gene," which Victorien Sardou wrote for that famous Parisian actress, Gabrielle Rajene and in which she achieved such success with Constant Coquelin, the most celebrated of all the French actors, as the Napoleon. Sir Henry Irving was the first to bring out the play upon the English stage, where it was triumphantly given with Ellen Terry as the fascinating heroine.

The play begins with a prologue which shows the wretched and despairing Bonaparte as a struggling lieutenant amid the poverty of his garret lodgings just before the outbreak of the French Revolution Catherine Huebscher, the fascinating little laundress, is in love with the soldier Lefebvre and will not flirt with Napoleon. The other acts show her after her wedding to Lefebvre who has become a Marshal of the Empire and has thus ennobled her at the Duchess Dantzig. By her outspoken, frank and mirth provoking manners, the good-hearted but vulgar, Catherine earns for herself the sobriquet of Madame Sans-Gene. She offends Napoleon and is about to be banished from Court, when she recalls the old days to him. Harry Hall will have this delightful role of Madame Sans-Gene at the Duquesne next week, while Frederick Sullivan the stage director will for this occasion enact the part of Napoleon. Albert Morrison will be the brave Lefebvre.

The Grand—Pittsburg

Manager Harry Davis may be considered most fortunate in having secured as the leading feature of his splendid vaudeville performance at the Grand beginning next Monday matinee, March 13, the eminent American character actor, Maclyn Arbuckle, late star of "The Round Up." "The County Chairman" and various other legitimate productions.

Mr. Arbuckle is playing a one-act comedy written for him by Richard Harding Davis, the famous novelist and editor of Munsey's Magazine. It is a story of the race track with picturesque character from the west, the east and the south, and is full of the slangy expressions peculiar to the western vernacular.

Neil O'Brien, the great minstrel man, is another attractive feature engaged for the forthcoming week.

Gene Greene, entertainer to the "400" will give a study in song. He will be assisted at the piano by Charles Straight.

Nellie V. Nichol, a popular caricature mimic will impersonate famous players in a humorous way.

Michael E Fitzgerald and his octet of English juggling girls will introduce club singing in rhythmic formation.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison who were in the original production of Broadhurst's "What Happened to Jones," will play "Minnie from Minnesota," a Swedish dialect skit.

Arnaud Brothers, musical acrobats made up as clowns will play various instruments while they go through their athletic exercise.

Clemens and Deane will contribute a singing and dancing specialty of particular attractiveness. Incidentally there will be a moving picture show of surpassing quality.

The Alvin—Pittsburg

William Faversham will present his new play, "The Faun," by Edward Knoblauch, at the Alvin Theatre next week. This new comedy by Mr. Knobuch has proved to be one of the important novelties of the season. In this drama, Mr. Faversham impersonates a faun, the same being the god of the shepherd. This particular faun happens to wander out of the woods and fields—his natural element—into London. He is discovered by a certain Lord Stonebury enjoying a bath in a huge vase in the garden of his house. He is first thought to be a tramp or some other obnoxious person. Lord Stonebury is very soon made right in this matter, with the result that he provides the faun with an ulster for his nakedness and brings him into the house. The two enter into an agreement, with the result that the faun is dressed up as a human being and makes his debut into society.

This new play offers Mr. Faversham a role vastly different from anything that he has impersonated up to date. It will be a striking antithesis to his impersonation of the Herod and other roles that he has been seen in in recent times

The Nixon—Pittsburg

Frank Daniels come to the Nixon next week and the Judge of the Divorce Court in the international musical comedy success of Viennese origin, "The Girl in the Train," under the management of Charles Dillingham. In the original German "The Girl in the Train," was called "The Divorced Bride," and under that title has been played all over Europe and is still running in Berlin and London. Charles Dillingham secured the American rights and engaged Mr. Daniels to play the stellar part of the judge of a comic personality who is called upon in the first act to hear a celebrated case involving a young wife and an actress. The wife is suing her husband for divorce because through a talkative conductor she has learned that he gave up his state room on a sleeping car to a beautiful actress who was unable to secure one for herself. The testimony conflicts regarding who occupied the sleeping compartment and so the judge is called upon to hear the different witnesses He falls in love with both the fair plaintiff and the actress, and his efforts to render decisions which will be satisfactory to both parties are highly amusing.

The music of "The Girl in the Train" is by Leo Fall. Mr. Dillingham has engaged a strong supporting company for Mr. Daniels. Miss Uallie Fisher will appear as the wife, and Miss Vera Michelena will be seen as the actress. There are a dozen other principals and a chorus of sixty. The staging and the costuming will be found rich in color schemse. While the scene in the divorce court is said to skate dangerously near thin ice, it is also said that there isn't a line or situation that would be the slightest offense against good taste.

Waterspouts.

A waterspout is a minature tornado originating in a strong upward draft of air which occurs above the surface of a body of comparatively warm water. Its effect first becomes visible in a circular motion at the point in the clouds to which it ascends. This becomes a whirl, which condenses the vapor at its center, causing the portion of the cloud there to drop downward in the shape of a gigantic jelly bag. At the same time the continuing upward draft increases the rapidity of its original swirl and the condensed vapor caught within it until the ascending and descending masses join to form the waterspout. Necessarily by this process the air beneath the spout is rarefied, and thus where the phenomenon occurs at sea the water always seems to be sucked up into it, although this is not really the case to any considerable extent. For similar reasons where a waterspout or tornado passes over a building it does most of its damage by exhausting the air outside, causing what is within to expand and blow the structure to pieces.

Right to the Point.

When the lord chief justice visited Ireland he was often entertained by a hospitable gentleman who had an old butler, who took the privilege of speaking his mind freely. On one occasion the claret did not quite meet the host's approval, so he called the ancient butler and said:

"I told you you were to put the best claret on the table. Is this the best?"

"No, sorr, it is not the best claret," replied the old fellow, "but it's the best ye've got."—London Tit-Bits.

A STEADY DRAIN

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body--Make You Ill, Lanquid and Depressed

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life giving albumen from the blood into the urine and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Charleroi cures prove it.

Mrs. B. Mahoney, 823 McKean avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "For a long time a member of our family complained of pains in the small of the back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, a box was procured at Piper Bros.' Drug Store and the use begun. They brought such great relief that I do not hesitate to recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

RAILROAD COMPANY INVITING BIDS ON NEW CHARLEROI STATION TODAY

Set of Plans and Specifications Sent Here For Local Firms to Examine

WILL LET CONTRACT SOON

Division Officials Anxious to Get Work Underway So Depot Can Be Finished During the Year

Information was received today from the division office at Pittsburg that the Pennsylvania Railroad is inviting bids on the proposed new Charleroi passenger station to be erected this spring. Local contractors will have a chance to bid.

Since the announcement made by the division officials about a month ago that work would proceed on the new Charleroi station as soon as possible this spring, the company has been getting the plans and specification in the most suitable shape. Without doubt Charleroi is to have one of the finest suburban stations in Western Pennsylvania, and one that will compare with any of the towns and cities of three or four times the population.

A set of plans and specifications will be sent to Charleroi so that the local lumber companies and contractors may see them and prepare bids.

Evidentally the contract will be awarded for the work as soon as possible, so that work of construction can be gotten under way at an early date in order to finish this year.

FIRM IN BUSINESS FOR TWELVE YEARS

Kirk and Clark Celebrating Anniversary of Charleroi Store

A fair day, liberal advertising and special inducements in the way of new goods and bargains, is bringing crowds to the twelfth anniversary sale of the Economic Store of Kirk and Clark today. It was twelve years ago when this enterprising firm first opened up for business in Charleroi, and how well they have succeeded is attested by the handsome new business block the firm erected a few year ago and occupy with their rapidly growing business.

It has been the custom of his firm to establish some new department each succeeding anniversary, and this year they have established a five and ten cent wall paper department. They have an immense stock of paper for the prices mentioned, and carry no higher priced goods in that line. The store is full of pretty things that delight the hearts of feminine shoppers, and a handsome pressed glass colonial pattern cream pitcher is given to visitors as an anniversary souvenir.

The lot was donated by the late James S. McKean, and the Silver StarBand purchased the organ. The mistake was made by reason of the report being received over the telephone.

It was up to the women to buy boxes at the Protected Home Circle box social last night. But that wasn't the worst, or the best part of it—the men had to prepare the boxes. Bidding was spirited and some good round prices were paid, the proceeds to be added to the relief fund. Jones and Copeland furnished instrumental music Miss Mabel Orr was awarded a grand favor in the form of a gold P. H C. stick pin. There is talk of a poverty social to be held in the near future, and also a minstrel show to be given under the direction of Capt Frank Taylor and Eddie Miller.

"THE ROSARY" COMING TO COYLE THEATRE

Can an evil mind breeding evil thoughts exert an adverse influence upon an entire family, bring that family to ruin and the members of the household remain in ignorance of the reason for the unhappiness?

That is the question that "The Rosary," a beautiful new play from the pen of Edward E. Rose and produced by Messrs Rowland and Clifford at the Coyle Theatre next Wednesday, March 22, answers in the affirmative.

The progressive euchre of the Lady Maccabees are planning is to be held on March 29, instead of March 9 as previously announced.

TOWN WITHOUT AUDIT FOR YEARS NOW PETITIONS TO HAVE ONE MADE

Fayette City Asks Court to Allow Borough to Appoint Auditors to Look Over Accounts

HAD 30 YEARS OF GRACE

Got Along For Nearly Third of Century Without Trouble of Having Examinations of Books Made

Fayette City borough through its solicitor, Hugh E. Fergus, of Charleroi, will shortly present to the court of Fayette county a petition asking that auditors be appointed to audit the borough books Fayette City has got along for 30 years without having an audit made according to law, and members of council have suddenly awakened to the fact that it is not business-like for a thriving municipality to be so unsystematic or profoundly forgetful. An audit company will likely be employed, if the sentiment of some of the members of council is taken into consideration.

The council has passed a fire limit ordinance and it has gone into effect through the signature of the burgess. The ordinance sets the fire limit as including Main and Cook streets to Fording, both sides of Market street from First to Fourth streets both sides of Union from the P. and L. E. railroad to Fourth street.

Good Roads First

Governor Tener has nipped in the bud an attempt to hook up with the proposed good roads amendment another amendment to promote the Pittsburg canal project. The good roads proposition meets with general favor throughout the State, but the canal project only affects the western part of the State, and while promoting industrial developments that would no doubt be beneficial to the State at large in time, its effects will not be so far reaching and beneficial as the good roads project. For that reason the promoters of the canal project seek to work in their amendment on the popularity of the other. This Governor Tener opposes, holding that each shall stand on its own merits.

This position is well taken. The canal proposition is an advanced project, which might be profitably considered by the State when the primary works of development are all planned and executed. The road proposition is most vital, and if put into execution will be to the State what the Panama canal will be to the maritime commerce of the world. In insisting that these projects be kept separate, Governor Tener is pursuing a wise course. Each is too big to be considered together, and the road project is the most vital and has the first call.

Honesty Pays

Recently the Men's Club of the big department store of the Joseph Horne company of Pittsburg were addressed by William C. Freeman, advertising manager of the New York Evening Mail, on "Advertising." Mr. Freeman, who is recognized as one of the leading advertising experts of the country, strongly insisted on the merchant being truthful and honest in advertising his wares.

The business houses that have made the greatest progress, Mr. Freeman declared, are those that have adhered strictly to a straightforward business policy, and have avoided all misrepresentation of values. Nothing injures a town or community more than untrue advertisements which make sweeping misstatements. Purchasers who visit a store where wholesale reductions are advertised, only to find that the reductions apply to old stock soon lose faith in the advertising announcements of that particular firm. If this class of advertising is practiced generally, the whole community is soon put under the ban by the purchasing public.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Most people think they wouldn't be robbers at all if they couldn't be real gentlemanly thieves. But this class never has any nerve anyhow.

Two girls are charged with stealing from a traveling man in Lawrence county. It has usually been considered legitimate to take anything from a man belonging to that profession.

Uncle Sam doesn't very often get out of sorts but when he does there is something doing.

Some people are learning how to talk Welsh. They have learned how to pronounce eisteddfod.

Anthony Biddle won't be in much shape to teach Sunday school Sunday because he took a notion that he could lick a fellow by the name of John O'Brien.

President Diaz is reported to be in bad health. You can't hardly blame him.

John L. Stewart, over at Washington, is taking on more trouble. He has bought another newspaper.

The Washington and Jefferson faculty opines that the street whereon a fraternity is living is an unfit place for the dear young men to stay. Whereupon they will be expected to move to some other neighborhood to put it in the same class.

A brand new railroad story has originated from Morgantown that a line is to be built between there and Connellsville but like the rest the people won't believe it until they see the tracks.

One comfort in this Mexican affair is that it will keep President Taft busy so he won't lose so many golf balls, thus making the price of rubber high.

Little fishes in the brook

Then comes home with honest eyes
And tells a mammoth string of lies.

It takes a crank to make things go round.

A new law has been proposed to regulate the use of gasoline. Just so they keep some fools from using it with which to start fires.

The way these monopolies act sometimes makes a fellow want to give them a good swift jab in the ribs.

With several farmers in the Legislature wanting to get back home to plant crops, its not much wonder the Ohio Legislature wants to adjourn.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

At a social gathering of women the other evening the drama was the subject of discussion. The various members were telling of the different plays they had seen and the impressions they had made, when one of the women said:

"The play that made the most impression on me was the first one I ever witnessed. It was over forty years ago in a little country town, and was presented by a company of barnstormers that for some reason had wandered into our village. The play was "Under the Gaslight," and to this day I vividly remember the plot and every detail of the lurid melodrama. This is the play where 'Snokry', the one-armed soldier is bound by the villian and laid upon the railroad track, but is rescued by the heroine just as the midnight express rushes by.

I was an impressionable child when I witnessed that play, and no dramatic production—and I have attended the best of them—ever appealed to my imagination so vividly, nor did the stage settings and properties appear so grand and real as did "Under the Gaslight" presented by the Kate Estelle company in the little country town, far removed from the railroad, over forty years ago."

A couple of connoisseurs of that delectable beverage technically known as "spirits frumenti," were engaged in a heated controversy at the corner of Fifth steet the other evening while waiting for a car. The argument was over the respective merits of "Sam Thompson" and "Gibsonton," and the partisan of each was firm in his conviction, and refused to be convinced. Finally an acquaintance who had strolled up was appealed to. This personage was bowed with the weight of years and resembled the description of Coleridges' "Ancient Mariner" He was addressed as "Uncle" and deliberated thusly:

"All whiskey's good, but some is better'n others. I couldn't jest rightly decide without tryin' 'em both to onct."

The trio disappeared within the doors of a nearby barroom.

SURGEONS' FEES.

Pretty Big Sometimes, but Then There Is Another Point of View.

I have a warm spot in my heart for the big American surgeons, says a writer in the New York Telegraph, and because of regular attendance for years at some of the most famous clinics in this and other cities I have been a witness of their unadvertised charities—acts of mercy and kindness which were never heard of outside the walls of the hospitals they honor by their services.

I knew a wealthy man whose daughter was suddenly stricken and whose life was saved by the attending surgeon. His fee was $25,000. Straightway the father emitted a wail.

"It's robbery," he said. The surgeon stood firm.

"Your daughter's life is worth $25,000 to you," he countered. There was no denial.

"Well, this fee means that I can operate on fifty persons without any charge, and if you don't like it you can force me to sue, but I will get it without a suit or you will stand a lot of publicity."

And he got the money without recourse to a court of law.

It is safe to mark it down when you see a story of some great surgeon who has charged a high fee that there are many of his patients enjoying good health and relief from pain because he charged them nothing at all.

THE CLANRICARDE PLAQUE.

A Famous Specimen of the Sixteenth Century Goldsmith's Art.

One of the greatest cinquecento jewels in the world is the Clanricarde plaque, owned by Lord Clanricarde, who is known as the "hermit peer" and who claims direct descent from the kings of Connaught. He guards with jealous care this precious example of the goldsmith's art, keeping it safe from possible thieves and the common gaze in a bank vault, to which he goes occasionally with great secrecy to feast his eyes upon its magnificence. Some years ago, by royal request, he lent it to an art exhibition in London, where it was admired and coveted by some of the greatest connoisseurs of Europe.

The huge disk is as delicately wrought as a spider's web and represents the figure of Hercules wielding a diamond sword. The sword blade is composed of a mass of perfectly matched steel white stones, and a superb blue diamond scintillates from the hilt. The present owner inherited it from his mother, who was a Miss Canning before her marriage to the Irish lord, and the plaque is practically priceless. Aside from its value to collectors and its worth as a specimen of rare and exquisite art, it is incrusted with a fortune in jewels.—New York Press.

Enough Said.

"Thrifty, is she?"

"Thrifty! I won't go into a long discourse. I merely tell you that she banks money in December."—Washington Herald.

His Dilemma.

"For $200 I'll fix your teeth so you can chew without difficulty."

"If I was to give you $200 I couldn't get anything to chew on."—Life.

Two young women were talking over their restaurant luncheon the other day about the quality of a certain prima donna's voice.

Subject to Republican Rules

To the voters of Washington County.

Believing that I am fully qualified to perform the duties of the Office of Prothonotary to the entire satisfaction of the professional, business and general public, I wish to announce myself as a candidate for that office. It is possibly the most difficult office in the county to properly conduct, yet I feel that my experience with its duties justifies me in asking your support for the nomination and election to the same.

It will be my desire and effort to see personally as many as possible before the primaries. Yet I wish to ask those of my friends who feel that they can give me their support to also take an active interest in my candidacy and speak a good word for me as opportunity occurs. This I will most gratefully appreciate and I shall endeavor to make good any recommendation you may make of me.

Sincerely

HARRY E. POLLOCK.

AMONG THE THEATRES

The Palace—Charleroi.

"An American Count" was an amusing photoplay that was a feature at the Palace Theatre this week. The story was that of the foolish young American girl who received a foreign count's portrait and a letter of introduction from a friend. Carried away with the idea of captivating him the girl throws overboard her lover, a worthy young American, whom her father approves. The latter gets hold of the count's photo, and the two connive to head off the girl in her folly. Going to a costumer the young man disguises himself as the count, and calling on the girl proposes and is accepted. The father finally consents to the suit of the mock count, but insists on a hasty marriage, which takes place. While the ceremony is being performed the father reveals the plot. The real count then shows up, but his appearance is so disgusting that the girl is well satisfied with her choice. There were numerous other good features and the songs both illustrated and spot light were of the highest order. A feature next week will be the illustrated song composed by John Buchanan of Charleroi.

New Duquesne—Pittsburg.

The splendid Court of Napoleon during the day of his shortlived Empire is to be depicted on the stage of the Duquesne Theatre next week with rich and elaborate magnificence of stage mounting. The Harry Davis Stocks player are then to present that delightful and picturesque comedy "Madam Sans-Gene," which Victorien Sardou wrote for that famous Parisian actress, Gabrielle Rajene and in which she achieved such success with Constant Coquelin, the most celebrated of all the French actors, as the Napoleon. Sir Henry Irving was the first to bring out the play upon the English stage, where it was triumphantly given with Ellen Terry as the fascinating heroine.

The play begins with a prologue which shows the wretched and despairing Bonaparte as a struggling lieutenant amid the poverty of his garret lodgings just before the outbreak of the French Revolution Catherine Huebscher, the fascinating little laundress, is in love with the soldier Lefebvre and will not flirt with Napoleon. The other acts show her after her wedding to Lefebvre who has become a Marshal of the Empire and has thus ennobled her at the Duchess Dantzig. By her outspoken, frank and mirth provoking manners, the good-hearted but vulgar, Catherine earns for herself the sobriquet of Madame Sans-Gene. She offends Napoleon and is about to be banished from Court, when she recalls the old days to him. Harry Hall will have this delightful role of Madame Sans-Gene at the Duquesne next week, while Frederick Sullivan the stage director will for this occasion enact the part of Napoleon. Albert Morrison will be the brave Lefebvre.

The Grand—Pittsburg

Manager Harry Davis may be considered most fortunate in having secured as the leading feature of his splendid vaudeville performance at the Grand beginning next Monday matinee, March 13, the eminent American character actor, Maclyn Arbuckle, late star of "The Round Up." "The County Chairman" and various other legitimate productions.

Mr. Arbuckle is playing a one-act comedy written for him by Richard Harding Davis, the famous novelist and editor of Munsey's Magazine. It is a story of the race track with picturesque character from the west, the east and the south, and is full of the slangy expressions peculiar to the western vernacular.

Neil O'Brien, the great minstrel man, is another attractive feature engaged for the forthcoming week.

Gene Greene, entertainer to the "400" will give a study in song. He will be assisted at the piano by Charles Straight.

Nellie V. Nichol, a popular caricature mimic will impersonate famous players in a humorous way.

Michael E. Fitzgerald and his octet of English juggling girls will introduce club singing in rhythmic formation.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison who were in the original production of Broadhurt's "What Happened to Jones," will play "Minnie from Minnesota," a Swedish dialect skit.

Arnaud Brothers, musical acrobats made up as clowns will play various instruments while they go through their athletic exercise.

Clemens and Deane will contribute a singing and dancing specialty of particular attractiveness. Incidentally there will be a moving picture show of surpassing quality.

The Alvin—Pittsburg

William Faversham will present his new play, "The Faun," by Edward Knoblauch, at the Alvin Theatre next week. This new comedy by Mr. Knobuch has proved to be one of the important novelties of the season. In this drama, Mr. Faversham impersonates a faun, the same being the god of the shepherd. This particular faun happens to wander out of the woods and fields—his natural element—into London. He is discovered by a certain Lord Stonebury enjoying a bath in a huge vase in the garden of his house. He is first thought to be a tramp or some other obnoxious person. Lord Stonebury is very soon made right in this matter, with the result that he provides the faun with an ulster for his nakedness and brings him into the house. The two enter into an agreement, with the result that the faun is dressed up as a human being and makes his debut into society.

This new play offers Mr. Faversham a role vastly different from anything that he has impersonated up to date. It will be a striking antithesis to his impersonation of the Herod and other roles that he has been seen in in recent times.

The Nixon—Pittsburg

Frank Daniels come to the Nixon next week and the Judge of the Divorce Court in the international musical comedy success of Viennese origin, "The Girl in the Train," under the management of Charles Dillingham. In the original German "The Girl in the Train," was called "The Divorced Bride," and under that title has been played all over Europe and is still running in Berlin and London. Charles Dillingham secured the American rights and engaged Mr. Daniels to play the stellar part of the judge of a comic personality who is called upon in the first act to hear a celebrated case involving a young wife and an actress. The wife is suing her husband for divorce because through a talkative conductor she has learned that he gave up his state room on a sleeping car to a beautiful actress who was unable to secure one for herself. The testimony conflicts regarding who occupied the sleeping compartment and so the judge is called upon to hear the different witnesses. He falls in love with both the fair plaintiff and the actress, and his efforts to render decisions which will be satisfactory to both parties are highly amusing.

The music of "The Girl in the Train" is by Leo Fall. Mr. Dillingham has engaged a strong supporting company for Mr. Daniels. Miss Uallie Fisher will appear as the wife, and Miss Vera Michelena will be seen as the actress. There are a dozen other principals and a chorus of sixty. The staging and the costuming will be found rich in color schemse. While the scene in the divorce court is said to skate dangerously near thin ice, it is also said that there isn't a line or situation that would be the slightest offense against good taste.

Waterspouts.

A waterspout is a miniature tornado originating in a strong upward draft of air which occurs above the surface of a body of comparatively warm water Its effect first becomes visible in a circular motion at the point in the clouds to which it ascends This becomes a vortex which condenses the vapor at its center, causing the portion of the cloud there to drop downward in the shape of a gigantic jug's bag At the same time the condensing upward draft increases the rapidity of its original swirl and the condensed vapor causes it to fall the ascending and descending masses join to form the waterspout Necessarily by this process the air beneath the spout is rarefied and thus where the phenomenon occurs at sea the water always seems to be sucked up into it although this is not really the case to any considerable extent For similar reasons where a waterspout or tornado passes over a building it does most of its damage by exhausting the air outside, causing what is within to expand and blow the structure to pieces.

Right to the Point.

When the lord chief justice visited Ireland he was often entertained by a hospitable gentleman who had an old butler, who took the privilege of speaking his mind freely. On one occasion the claret did not quite meet the host's approval, so he called the ancient butler and said

"I told you you were to put the best claret on the table. Is this the best?"

"No, sorr, it is not the best claret," replied the old fellow, "but it's the best ye've got."—London Tit-Bits.

Buying Food by Mail

A recent development of the mail order business is the buying by mail of food. This system was inaugurated in this section last fall by McCann and Co., of Pittsburg, who sold a 10 pound pail of Butterine at $2.00. The effort was so successful they have decided to extend their plan this year.

As before, they will send you 10-pound pail of finest Creamery Butterine at $2.00. As this is regular 23c Butterine, and at that, you save 30c on each order.

Offer No 2 includes the 10-pound pail of Butterine and 5 lbs of 25c Coffee which they ship for 3.90, saving you 55c on the order.

The third offer takes 10 lbs of buttecine, 5 lbs of 25c Coffee and 1 lb of 60c Tea, all for $3.50 on a saving of 85 cents.

A fourth offer includes the 10 lbs of Butterine and 3 lbs of 40c Tea at $3.00 or a saving of 50c. Take you choice of Ceylon, English Breakfast, Assam, Olong, Japan or Young Hyson teas.

These values are guaranteed and are certain to please you. Send cash for a trial order to McCann and Co., Pittsburg, Pa. They pay express charges to Charleroi and vicinity.

A STEADY DRAIN

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body--Make You Ill, Languid and Depressed

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life giving albumen from the blood into the urine and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Charleroi cures prove it

Mrs. B. Mahoney, 823 McKean avenue, Charleroi, Pa., says: "For a long time a member of our family complained of pains in the small of the back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, a box was procured at Piper Bros.' Drug Store and the use begun. They brought such great relief that I do not hesitate to recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
